ADVICE SHEET 10

After a scale and polish or root planing

Sensitivity and slight bleeding: what is normal and how to keep the result.

WHAT IS NORMAL

- Sensitivity to cold for a few days.
- Slight bleeding of the gums when brushing, which quickly decreases.

GOOD HABITS

- Keep brushing your teeth morning and evening with a soft brush.
- Use a toothpaste for sensitive teeth if needed.
- Clean between your teeth with floss or interdental brushes.

FOLLOW-UP

- A regular scale and polish, usually once or twice a year, stops tartar coming back.
