ADVICE SHEET 13

Are your teeth sensitive to cold?

Common causes and what helps.

COMMON CAUSES

- Gums that recede and expose the root.
- Brushing too hard or a brush that is too hard.
- Frequent acidic food and drinks.

WHAT HELPS

- A soft brush and gentle brushing.
- A toothpaste for sensitive teeth, used every day for several weeks.
- Limit fizzy drinks, fruit juice and citrus fruit between meals.

WHEN TO SEE US

- If the sensitivity persists or affects a single tooth: decay or a crack may be the cause.
